

Main - AlarmClockDesign

I created this for general use for future costumes so that I don't need to keep remeasuring myself. The dimensions of my body are not quite accurate, but they are accurate enough for use in designing a costume.

The design of the clock isn't too complex. It's a simple 2D costume like my Pac-Man costume except that I face forward toward the flat side of the costume instead of the thin edge of the costume.

Note that I mentioned a winder on the back. I ended up forgetting about that until I scanned that in. It probably would have looked nice to have a winder on the back, but it's not a huge loss.

Continue to the building of the clock

Back to the main Alarm Clock page